

HTML5 + Mobile Sites = 30 Bucks + 30 Minutes

Alba, Noir, & Fone: 3 new mobile web templates

Make a mobile web site for 30 bucks in 30 minutes. Alba, Noir, and Fone are HTML5 templates that make mobile web pages. Available now from QRdvar.com [www.QRdvar.com/] for $29, these new web templates can be customized and live on the internet in less than an hour.

Replace the text and images in these HTML5 templates with your own words and graphics and you've created a mobile website made for smartphones like Android and iPhones. Mix text and graphics. Embed maps, calendars, and video. Watch how easy it is: [<http://youtu.be/PXFp9lor6lo>]

Start with the free version, make your first mobile page or two, and then upgrade to the paid version when you're ready. The Alba, Noir, and Fone templates are ideal for small businesses that need a mobile web presence but can't afford the time and hassle of a large web development effort.

All three templates come with expanded CSS style sheets for multiple formatting options, a comprehensive library of icons and buttons, instructions on how to embed Google Maps and Google Calendars in mobile pages, and a collection of tips and tricks specific to building web pages for smartphones. The full versions are $29 and available online at: [www.QRdvar.com/templates/]

Alba is a clean, uncluttered design with restaurants in mind and creates food menus complete with descriptions and prices. Noir is a quiet, minimalist design that looks great on any mobile phone, with a black background perfect for displaying photos or images. Fone looks like a mobile app as much as a mobile page and is a versatile starting point that lends itself to modification.
